Morris Gibbs has shown that aged birds remain the same, the psychological state of age. This conclusion is based on observations made on fifty species of birds.

There are twenty-five million acres of land in the world, of which there are about six million in Europe and about five million in the United States. The United States has about 300 acres of irrigated lands.

The Temple of Yamboul in Nubia is built from a solid rock, and its entrance is guarded by four statues, each six feet high, twenty-five feet across the shoulders, the face of each face long, the ear over three feet.

Mr. Clarence King, the well-known geologist, has computed the earth's age on the basis of experiments made on the effect of heat and pressure on certain rocks. Mr. King concludes that the earth's age as a planet is 24,000,000 years.

In the Cascade Mountains is the Great Sunken Lake, the most deeply-sunken lake in the world. It is fifteen miles long and four and a half wide. Its surface lies five feet below the surface of the water, but the depth of the water is unknown.

Among the many "freaks" offered for exhibition at the World's Fair was a man that always walks backward, a Shetland pony that is so small that her shoes are made from $20 gold pieces, a razor that had been used by George Washington, an Indian boyhood aged four years, who can recite "Thanatopsis," and a garment 400 years old.

Nature, quoting a correspondent from Lahore, India, says: "A few days ago in a village named Dadul (in the Peshawar district) rain fell, preceded by a wind storm, and with the rain came a shower of hailstones, which lasted for an hour and a few minutes. The most curious part of this occurrence is that the hailstones, when touched, were not at all cold, and when put in the mouth tasted like sugar."

A recent writer in the Magazine of Natural History asks whether ants talk, and relates that he saw a drove of small black ants moving apparently to new quarters. Every time two met they put their heads together as though they were chatting. To investigate the matter he killed one, and the eye-witnesses of the murder hastened away and laid their heads together with every ant they met. The latter immediately turned back and fled.

The late Gen. Beale is said to have brought the first specimen of gold from California to the East in 1848. He crossed through Mexico with them, disguised as an English lieutenant—there a dangerous place for Americans to go after the war—and managed to get aboard the United States ship Saratoga, then lying off San Diego, in command of Capt. (afterward Admiral) Farragut. It was the report thus brought by Gen. Beale that stimulated the gold fever all over the country.

Dave Hanks of Kane Creek, N. C., Bunkum Co. has an eighty-eight line poem, entitled "Shade Lemon's P. Penolons, dedicated 22 The New Penush Kermahner," in Fetter's Southern Magazine for November. This poem is in the best humorous vein of that eccentric old bard of the mountains. Articles by Clifford Lanier, W. C. Egan, and Mrs. Clark Waring are interesting. A powerful study of psychic phenomena appears in "Nine or Demonic?" by G. W. Darrell, M. D.

The results of six months of observations of Mars have led Mr. Schaefer, of the Lick Observatory, to the conclusion—contrary to the generally received view—that the dark portions of the disk represent land, and the light portions water. This is supported by observations of San Francisco Bay from Mount Hamilton, in which the bay appears brighter than the neighboring valley and mountains at the same distance. On this hypothesis the "canals" would correspond to ridges of mountains and valleys, which immersed in water, while their doubling may represent parallel ridges of which our own earth furnishes examples.

Notes for Women

Be sure that the coffee pot is clean if you want good coffee.

Housekeeping can be made much easier and enjoyable than many make it. It requires order and system.

Have a place for everything and train every member of the household to put things in their assigned places.

The mother who does not train her daughters to be neat, orderly, housekeepers, does the children a great wrong.

Try the white of an egg for burns or scalds. It is also recommended as an antidote for poisons of a corrosive nature. In such cases it is taken internally of course.

Mothers and sisters, treat the boys of the household so they will feel while young, what they will realize when too late, that home is the best place on earth.

Home is the last place where eridemics should be made. The world chides and stings enough with its criticisms, and home should be a place of retreat from such things.

A housekeeper says that insects may be destroyed with hot alum. Put it in hot water and let it boil until the alum is dissolved. Apply hot, with a brush, and all creeping things are instantly destroyed without danger to human life or injury to property.

In naming a writer thinks that the housekeeper should bear in mind that there are few kinds of fruit that are not improved by sugar, because it takes the color and flavor and gives much finer results. Some kinds of fruit require but little sugar for this purpose, while others are poor indeed without sugar.

Women in Greenland.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the returned explorer, tells a Brooklyn Eagle representative of some curious customs among the inhabitants of far-away Greenland.

Unbecoming as is the costume of those northerners it is graceful and becoming as compared with their own. If all the stories told about them be true. They never wash, their clothes are worn from generation to generation, and their general habits are indescribable. When Perry and followers washed their faces in melted snow the natives thought it a religious ceremony and stood silent in amazement. When, from seeing the operation performed several times, they began to understand that it was an everyday occurrence, they summoned their friends from far and near to witness the sight. There is but little difference between the dress of the men and women of the North.

The woman's head is separate from the coat, which hangs loosely to the back to afford a resting place for her papoose. The papooses wear no clothes at all. When the mother's head is in place no breath of air can touch the little one. The skin clothes hang to the thighs. The man's trousers reach from the knees to the edge of the coat, where they fit tightly. They are not fastened in any way, and if the wearer leans forward or backward he exposes his flesh to an atmosphere that would freeze a white man.

From the knees down the legs are protected by long boots of seal skin. The trousers are made of the skin of the polar bear, and are practically indestructible. One pair will last a man a lifetime and will then serve for a younger generation. The woman's trousers are much shorter than the man's and the boots she wears are proportionately longer. The boots are made of seal skin with the fur dressed off. A pair of them will last about four months. The woman makes the shoes and other clothing and in fact do all the work. The men hunt and fish and sleep. The method of dressing the seal and bird-skin is effective if nasty. As soon as an Esquimaux takes off his boots his wife proceeds to sew them for him by chewing them. The shirt of auk or elder-duck skin contains from 100 to 150 skins, all of which have to be chewed into condition and then sewed together with gut. A shirt will last eighteen months before it falls to pieces, so that with sewing and chewing shoes and shirts the time of the women is pretty well occupied, without any allowance for the manufacture of stockings from the skin of the Arctic hare. Dr. Cook has a native made quilt of elder-duck skin, for which he was offered $400.

When the white men first reached Greenland they were as much a curiosity to the Esquimaux as the Esquimaux were to them. Manassees, of one of the most northern tribes, walked 200 miles to gaze at a white man.

During his trip he met a young Esquimaux girl, with whom he fell in love, and Dr. Cook thus describes his loving-making and the subsequent marriage ceremony: "As soon as Manassees was attracted to the girl he asked her parents to give her to him. They were willing if she was. Manassees then, according to Greenland custom, instead of telling her that she was the most beautiful creature under the sun, said to her, 'Mahmakdooch' (that means, 'You smell good to me'). If she had run away it would have signified that Manassees must seek elsewhere for a wife, but she did not, she repeated, 'Mahmakdooch,' and the couple rubbed their noses together in the presence of the girl's relatives. That concluded the ceremony and, according to the custom of the country, they were married for a probationary term of three months. At the end of three months the groom is compelled to return the bride to her parents and not to see her for a year. If at the end of a year he desires to claim her she must go to him. If he does not care to claim her he is free to desert her, and he is not thought to have done anything dishonorable. It is, however, very seldom that an Esquimaux deserts the girl he has once rubbed noses with."

Among many other relics that Dr. Cook brought back with him are the mummified skeletons of an extinct race, disinterred by his party from their ancient graves at Oonahok. The entire contents of the fish-graves were packed in cases and are now in Brooklyn awaiting scientific examination.

Help is Wanted

By the women who are ailing and suffering, or weak and exhausted. And, to all such women, help is guaranteed by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. For young girls just entering womanhood; women at the critical "change of life"; women approaching menopause; nursing mothers; and every woman who is "run-down" or overworked, it is medicine that builds up, strengthens and regulates, no matter what the condition of the system.

It's an invigorating, restorative tonic, a soothing and bracing nerve, and the only guaranteed remedy for "female complaints"; and weaknesses. In bearing-down sensations, periodical pain, ulceration, inflammation, and every kindred ailment, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

One of the prevalent errors among our farmers is the supposition that growth of sorrel, and other plants of an acid character, indicates an acid condition of the soil. Farmers should know that all these vegetable acids are the result of the assimilating process by which the plant gets carbon from the air. The vegetable acids are of carbon-hydrate origin, and come from the air, and not from the soil. The application of the so-called acid phosphates to the soil has nothing to do with the appearance of sorrel. The prevalence of sorrel indicates either an impoverished condition of the soil, or a state in which the fertility present is in an unavailable condition. The application of lime is useful, not because it sweetens, but because it brings about changes in the soil that render plant food available.—Practical Farmer.

The wisest course in politics is to vote for the best man, and you cannot be mistaken. So, in the use of blood-purifiers, you can't be mistaken if you take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, because all parties agree that it is the best—The Superior Medicine. Try it this month.

Chills and Fever

Expected to Die—But Hood's Gave Good Health.

"If you will take time to read this letter, I would like to tell you what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. Three years ago I was taken with chills and fever, and although I slept in a cold room, even in winter, I would not have the light of day again. I thought I must die."

Hood's Sarsaparilla
I had been told that Hood's Sarsaparilla was doing for others. I thought I would try it, and I believe it has saved my life. I am now as healthy as a horse, and I can do all my usual work. I do not have chills or fever, and I feel that I am a new man."

Hood's Sarsaparilla
I have been told that Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine for chills and fever. I have tried many other medicines, but none have done me any good. I have now tried Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I feel that it has done for me what no other medicine could. I am now as healthy as a horse, and I can do all my usual work. I do not have chills or fever, and I feel that I am a new man."

The "bad boy" of Mt. Sterling, in hunting for fields new to which to exercise his talents, has had to fall back upon the old-time sport of "running."

A few nights ago a couple of these guileless lads proposed a walk to the suburbs to a young clerk who had been raised in a city and knew nothing of the dangers of walking in the country after nightfall. Naturally the conversation turned on the danger attendant upon such a walk, and many a fearful tale told these guileless youths unfolded to harrow up the feelings of their companion. Of course the boys fell among thieves, and when the pistols began to crack and the guns to boom and the clerk saw his two companions fall to the ground pierced, as he supposed, by many balls, he opened his mouth and gave vent to a yell that has scarcely yet done echoing among the hills, and set out at a pace that is seldom equaled by the fastest racer. It did not matter that he reached the protecting limits of the town, his pace slackened not till, worn and exhausted, he sought the shelter of his own room. Only then did he gather himself together sufficiently to tell of the fate that had befallen his friends. The boys have been a little shy about explaining to the clerk how it happened they were not so badly hurt as they appeared to be, and how they escaped from the hands of the robbers.

Mr. William Stevens, aged 85 died at his home on the Carnegie pike, near the city limits, on Tuesday morning last. Mr. Stevens was a quiet, unobtrusive man, who desired to so use the life God gave him in doing all the good he could and just as little harm as possible. Two of his sorrowing children, Mrs. B. F. Wyant and Mrs. R. C. Robinson, are residents of this city.

While Senator Sherman is parading about in Ohio claiming credit for having passed the Ropes Bill, Senator Voorhees is out in an interview in which he says the Ohio Senator prolonged the struggle and did more to encourage the enemies of repeal and to discourage its friends than any other element.

At a regular meeting of Mt. Sterling Lodge No. 23, F. & A. M., a committee was appointed and reported the following preamble on the death of our lamented brother Jesse A. Orar, which was adopted and publication requested in our town papers. We have assembled to pay tribute to the memory of our esteemed and beloved brother Jesse A. Orar. We rejoice in his citizenship, and that he was a man of spotless character and the purest integrity, one who loved God and his fellow man. He was one whose innate modesty shrank from publicity and whose sympathies extended to and aided the most humble; one who by nature a gentleman and by profession a Christian. But alas! his work was done, his column is broken. To say we realize our loss, does not express our feelings, yet we feel that such a life crowned with such attainments is not lost but will live with us as a guide and pattern. May we emulate his virtues and strive after his attainments. Our deepest sympathies, we extend to his bereaved wife and relatives. Their loss is our loss, but his eternal gain.

Why I Am a Democrat.

Under this title Gen. M. T. McMahon writes an interesting paper in Donahoe's Magazine. This is what he says about protection:

"Our country never needed protection, in my opinion. It is the most prolific country the sun ever shown on. Its productiveness is unparalleled and violent protection is given to an enterprise in order that it may be profitable, the money invested in it is diverted by that very fact from its legitimate use and natural channel. The moment an industry cries out for protection and hangs out the signal of distress the capital invested in it should be withdrawn; and certainly if invested in some other industry that needs no protection, the money will yield a better return in the end to the investor himself, and will contribute very much more to the general prosperity, employing more labor, developing more capital. The hot-house process was never necessary in the United States. It is folly for a man to attempt to grow oranges in Massachusetts, when he can produce other crops that pay without artificial forcing."

The Republican force of employees under Surveyor of Port Alford quit yesterday and forwarded their resignations to Washington, the object being to throw the office of the new Surveyor into confusion. Mr. Alford is fortunate says Saturday's Courier-Journal.

FARM-HOUSE

A FOWL HOUSE FOR RENTERS.

A Desirable Building That May Be Used for Constructing and Feeding Hens.

In country towns and villages there is a considerable class of small poultry growers, who, being renters and therefore liable to moving about from one place to another, require poultry houses that may be transferred along with other goods and chattels without great expense. The result of this class is here given an illustrated description of a plan of house recommended by the editor of Farm Poultry as suited to the requirements of renters. He says:

We give the plan of a house such as they should build were we on a rented place, but if we adopted the "colony plan," of having detached houses set 150 feet apart over the fields, with the fowls having free range. This house we should build 8 by 12 feet on the ground, 7 feet high in front, 4 feet high at the back, with a half window at each end, and a door, half window and a little side door in front. We would have sides 4 by 4 inches around bottom, all the rest of the frame being 2 by 4 stuff, all strongly spiked together, the studs and rafters being not over three feet apart.

Such a building made of cheap boards and covered-roof and walls with Neponset roofing fabric (and paint) would be moderate in cost, so light it could be drawn by a pair of horses easily after being piled up and two pairs of low wheel put under, and would last many years. In placing it, the ground should be thrown up so as to make it far above the surrounding level; small stones or blocks set at intervals for the slits to rest on; then boards put down into the ground and nailed onto the inside of the slits.

In the ground plan is the roost platform, 30 inches wide, just below the top of roost pole 10 inches above it; below it two or three movable nest boxes set back to the light; in the dusting box, a few inches, just below the window, for the morning mab; d, the water pan; e, oyster shells box. The center of the floor space is open ground for scratching, and here should be litter such as chopped straw, leaves or chaff, into which the grain-feds should be thrown to compel scratching. Such a building would house 12 fowls comfortably, and could be multiplied indefinitely, according to number of fowls kept.

Cottontail Huts For Cow Feed.

The value of the hulls of cotton seed as food for cows is much estimated by different authorities. Professor Massey places a high value on them, and H. Stewart of North Carolina tells us in The Country Gentleman that he can verify the professor's estimate. Mr. Stewart says:

I have tried cottontail hulls and must say that if I were near a cotton oil mill I should use all of it I could, as being the cheapest for cows and cattle in the market. Its composition is as follows: Protein, 5.66 per cent; fat, 3.31; carbohydrates, 42.67; fiber, 45.82. At the normal valuation of foods these are worth 80 cents for 100 pounds, or about $13.50 a ton. But they may be bought at the mills for $1.30 a ton and at this price are certainly cheap. They are fed to cattle rapidly, and the town cows that board feed about the mills look as sleek as an exhibition Jersey.

The Southern Cultivator, writing on the same subject, says: "The approved method of feeding cotton hulls is 4 pounds of hulls and 1 pound of cottonseed meal, or 50 pounds of hulls and 5 pounds of cottonseed meal per day to a large cow. According to intelligent authority there is not too little nutriment in the hulls, unless the oil is pressed out. They are about equal to dry wheat straw. Their chief merit is their cheapness. A mixture of chopped oat straw and cottonseed hulls is a good ration, but just as good and probably better than the mixture of hulls and meal. The proportions above would be greatly improved by the addition of 100 or 200 pounds of wheat bran. Hulls alone will keep a cow alive, and that is about all."

The Cattle Horns.

The horns, which is a very serious pest in many of the southern states, forms a subject for consideration in a bulletin issued from the Mississippi station. In this bulletin H. E. Weed advises the use of an oil containing 1 cent carbolic acid, one-half to one ounce per quart, one-fourth pound sulphur and 1 gallon cedar cottonseed oil, or fish oil, or lard oil. Mix well and apply with a brush or cloth to the back, shoulders and neck of the animal. Fish oil and pine tar mixed and applied in the same way is equally effective. Mixing the tar with the fish oil makes the odor last longer. Either the pennyroyal or the tar mixture will keep the flies off for several days, after which repeat the application. As the hornies breed in fresh manure, the stables and yards should be kept as clean as possible. The hornies in the manure may be killed with quicklime.

A happy family—
Truman H. had been rescued from the grave by the use of Dr. Fennel's Kidney and Backache Cure. He writes: "My father died of kidney disease and I inherited it. Had become so bad that medical treatment ceased to do me any good. I was given over to despair. One bottle of Dr. Fennel's Kidney and Backache Cure practically cured me, though I continued it a little longer to be safe. My digestion improved at once, my kidneys healed and I am now a well man." Write him at Bush, N. Y. Certain in all kidney diseases, female complaints, backache, soreness or lameness over back, stone in bladder, etc. Also the Gravel, Blood Purifier, removing promptly all impure and poisonous matter from the blood, curing skin eruptions and scrofula, dyspepsia, heart disease, dropsy, rheumatism, drowsiness, dullness, sleeplessness, constipation, headache. Money refunded if satisfaction not given. Take home a bottle to-day.

American Cliff-Dwellers.

Hitherto all attempts to assign a time when the cliff-dwellers were abandoned have been mere conjectures. That the ruins are not all of the same age is certain; and it is not unreasonable to conclude that the cliff-dwellers survived during a long period of time, various communities voluntarily abandoning their old homes for more favorable positions long before the final disappearance of the race.

Now that so many of these ancient ruins are being explored, the archaeologist, by comparative examinations into improvements in architecture, by a careful consideration of the conditions and progress of decay, and by studying the relics of earthenware and the implements that are continually being found, will, it is hoped, be able approximately to assign different periods of antiquity to different ruins in spite of the arid climate and other favoring circumstances militating against decay. It is difficult to believe that certain relics, such as wood-work, matting, etc., have defied the destructive action of time of any great length. It is true that the cerements that in old Egyptian mummies are thousands of years old, but it must be remembered that they were anured with preservative unguents, that many of their lifeless wearers were inclosed in air-tight sarcophagi, and that none of them were exposed to weathering influences.

What an extraordinary life those ancient people led! What curious households they presented living in homes perched in holes and niches and wide-yawning caverns in the cliffs at heights varying from one hundred to two thousand feet above the bottoms of the canyons! With muscular limbs and agile nerve the cliff-dweller day by day would sail from his doorway and descend the bald rock a thousand feet without a tremor—with no more feeling of trepidation than had the eagle which soared above him. Accustomed from infancy to gaze from dizzy heights, he skirted the precipice's edge in air-safety and looked unmoved into the abyss below. Evening found him at home again with his children around him, perhaps smoking his pipe after a supper of roasted corn and flesh of turkey. And the babies, like eaglets in their crannies! Imagine mothers descending those steep walls with their infants on their backs and returning with vessels of water or bundles of fire-wood on their heads! No wonder that the children learned to gaze unawed into fearsome depths, and where facilities offered, played hide-and-seek and tag-and among the rocks, as soon as they had discarded their childish rattle and other playthings. They were safer and more free from danger of accident than are the school children of San Francisco and Oakland, where the trolley and the cable-car, the railway and the furiously driven delivery-wagon main and kill—Prof. G. N. Richardson, in November Californian.

FRUIT AT LITTLE COST.

Those who own but little land, or who are able to plant but few trees, may still make provision for a fine future supply. Let the owner set off a small portion of ground for a small orchard or fruit garden, even if he cannot plant it at once. He may procure two or three or half a dozen trees and set them out in line. The needed care for this number need not interrupt his other business for a few years, when they will begin to bear.

These few sorts may be early or autumn apples, which, when they begin to show their rich promise, will convey substantial enjoyment to the family who have watched their growth. In each coming season more may be added, and in time a handsome and thrifty orchard will occupy the ground. If pines are taken to plant only the very best, which may be done by setting only a few at a time, an orchard of choice fruit will be the result—American Cultivator.

Specimen Cases.

S. H. Clifford, New Cassel, Wis. was troubled with neuralgia and rheumatism. His stomach was disordered, his liver was affected to an alarming degree, appetite fell away, and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength. Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured him.

Edward Shepherd, Harrisburg, Ill., had a running sore on his leg of eight years' standing. Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Speaker, Catwags, Ohio, had five large fever sores on his leg, doctors said he was incurable. One Bottle of Electric Bitters and one box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely. Sold by W. Butter and Egg Farm.

Of all combinations a butter and egg farm is the best. On a model farm there are six fine Jersey cows which produce a lot of excellent butter; 200 early hatched pullets give eggs in autumn and winter, and 100 mated fowls replenish the stock of pullets each year, besides giving a generous supply of broilers. Each year the one-year-old hens are fattened and sent to market as roasting fowls. In this way a steady income is constantly coming in. Arthur Farrar, one of the best known Chicago's capitalists, died of nervous prostration Thursday. He leaves a very large estate, all of which he had accumulated in Chicago since 1868.

Prendergast, the murderer of Mayor Carter Harrison, was arraigned before Judge Horton in Chicago Thursday. He pleaded not guilty and was granted a continuance until he could secure a lawyer.

Immediately after the closing of the Baptist Sunday School next Sunday morning, a very important meeting will be held, probably the most important in the history of the church. Every member needs to be present.

Bud Stone, self-convicted murderer of the Wrasen family, was arraigned at Washington, Ind., on Saturday morning, and pleaded guilty. The jury was charged and in a few minutes brought in a verdict of murder in the first degree.

At Austin, Texas, on the 25th ultimo, Rev. R. B. Garrett and wife (nee Anna Laura Hown) lost their four year old daughter Emily by diphtheria. She was a bright, sweet little child, and this dispensation is a deep sorrow. They have the sympathy of their friends here.

The Chicago Columbian Museum fund was given another big lift by a check for $50,000 from Mrs. George D. Sturges. She subscribes the amount unconditionally. Mrs. Sturges is the widow of the late George D. Sturges, who was President of the Northwestern National Bank.

Robert Poston, cashier and confidential man for the commission firm of McCoy & Underwood, at the stockyards, of Chicago, has been missing for several days. The shortage is variously estimated at from $15,000 to $30,000. He is said to have had a confederate in a very pretty young woman, who is also gone.

The Cronin case, with Daniel Coughlin as defendant, was called in court at Chicago again Thursday, but, as before, many previous occasions, the trial was postponed. A rumor that the prosecution will dismiss the case was denied. Coughlin's attorneys say they will demand an immediate trial or the release of Coughlin.

The steamship City of Alexandria from Havana to New York, was burned off Colimar, twenty-five miles from Havana, Wednesday afternoon. It is believed that thirty-four or thirty-five persons were drowned. The vessel, which was one of the largest in the West Indies trade, had 400 hogsheads of rum on board.

The association of negroes, formed to test the constitutionality of the separate coach law, filed its first suit at Owensboro Thursday. The suit is brought by a negro preacher, W. H. Anderson and wife, of Evansville, who want $15,000 damages for being put on a Louisville and Nashville train at Henderson because the insisted on riding in a car set aside for white people.

Arrangements have been concluded in New York by which control of the Chesapeake, Ohio and Southwestern railroad, running from Louisville to Memphis, is secured by the Louisville and Nashville and Illinois Central roads. The deal involves about $6,000,000. By this purchase the Louisville and Nashville obtains a practical monopoly of all lines in Kentucky west of Lexington and east of the Tennessee river, and in addition gets terminal facilities at Memphis which would otherwise have cost the company over half a million dollars.

Colonel J. Hampton Hoge, recently appointed United States Consul at Amoy, China, received an intimation by telegram that he had been removed by President Cleveland on account of certain charges that had been made against him, the nature of which the dispatch failed to state. Colonel Hoge expressed great surprise at this recall, and stated his intention of proceeding to Washington at once to investigate. The charges are said to have been preferred by Col. Hoge's tailor, who thinks the Colonel's having forgotten to settle an unfair bill for clothes, was "conduct unbecoming a gentleman."

HORSE AND TRACK.

Nanoy Hanks' earnings for this year amount to $17,550.

Of the 27 pacers in the 2:10 list all are living but Storm, 2:08.

Palo Alto secured $90,000 for six foals out of Beautiful Belle.

It is said that Doble and Starr may consolidate their stables next year.

Geers says that Robert J. is the fastest harness performer on earth.

Alcyone is the only sire of two trotters with race records below 2:10.

J. H. L., 2:08, has started in forty-four races and won money in all but two.

Meander, the sire of Pamlico, 2:10, and Egmont, the sire of Lobasco, 2:10, are brothers.

Nutwood leads all sires of new performers this season with 18. Alcantara comes next with 17.

John Kelly has marked three horses below 2:06—Direct 2:06, Directum 2:06, and Flying Jib 2:04.

Palo Alto farm has an order for fifty colts, fillies and brood mares for immediate shipment to Europe.

Alma Mater has now eight representatives in the 2:30 list. She has produced foals by ten different sires.

Directum won the match race with Mascot 2:04 at New York Thursday in straight heats. 2:10, 2:07, 2:08.

One hundred and eighty head of horses brought $15,000 during the first three days of the Berry sale last week, an average of $250.

Sphinx has now thirteen in the 2:30 list, and the oldest of his get is but five years. Four of the thirteen are two-year-olds, and three have records in 2:20 or better.

Alerton's fee next season will remain at $200. Probably only a few outside mares will be taken, as he will early in the season be placed in active training.—Trotter.

An exchange says that in the last two years $20,000 have been paid by Boston parties to get a horse to beat Jewett on the road. They are out hunting now and have not found one yet.

Next February Augustus Sharpe, of Louisville, owner of Greendale and Earl, will ship a stable of eight horses to Germany, where he will campaign them. He believes he can make more money there.

Voodoo, by Stamboul, out of Minnehaha, took a record at Homestead, N. Y., the other day of 2:27. This gives old Minnehaha eight performers in the list. Voodoo was purchased several years ago by F. G. Babcock, of Hornellville, for $24,000.

A story is told that a lecturer in one of the western colleges became the fortunate possessor of a trotting stallion whose services were worth $8000 a year, and his annual salary was but $1000. The breeder admonished him that he must sell his horse or resign. The professor is now doing good by lecturing to breeders.

Is Fantasy the two-minute horse? None can tell, not even Ed. Geers, who has trained, conditioned and driven her in all her races, but the fact that the first quarter was trotted in 33 seconds and the last in 31, indicates speed in reserve. Fantasy 2:08 is large, rangy and bony, but the bones are not too large, nor is she large enough to be in the least clumsy or lumberly in action. In motion she shows a smooth, low action, is not nervous nor easily worried, but seems to be full of quiet power and unlimited energy, with full control of herself and absolute confidence in her driver.

The marvelous performances of Director, Nancy Hanks and Alit at Chicago have revived the question as to the increase of speed given to a trotter hitched to a modern bike. "Crit Davis said recently that if it were not for the bicycle sulky, he could not drive a trotting race. "I weigh 183 pounds," he went on, "so that if I were to try to drive Harrietta or any of the others that can trot heat after heat in 2:15 it would cause them to go back to about 2:30. There is not the slightest friction to a bicycle sulky with pneumatic tires and ball bearings, so that, as heavy as I am, I have as good a chance as any of the lightweight drivers."

A special from Lexington to the Louisville Times says: A mysterious disease has broken out among the cattle about Paris and in Fayette county. W. K. Hughes has lost three within the past few days, and five others are in a dangerous condition. Mr. Hughes has applied to the Lexington veterinary for help. The disease, he thinks, is contagious.

Owing to the default of $90,000 interest the American Loan and Trust Company of Boston, trustees for $1,500,000 worth of first mortgage bonds of the company owning and engaged in the development of the town of Grand Rivers, Ky., Friday filed suit in the Federal Court at Louisville, asking for an order for the sale of the property and for the appointment of a receiver. Judge Barr appointed Thos. W. Lawson, Vice President of the company, receiver, fixing his bond at $40,000.

The weekly reviews of the trade of the Dun and Bradstreet mercantile agencies show that already the repeal of the silver purchasing clause of the Sherman act is having its good effect on business generally. While it is declared that repeal came too late to help fall trade, it has served to give a tone of health to business that is encouraging in the extreme. Bankers are more liberal in their accommodations, while everywhere the merchants are more hopeful than for a long while.
